Ethnic groups funded

FAIRFIELD City ethnic communities will benefit from a $45,000 State Government grant announced last week.

Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Minister Michael Photios said nine ethnic community associations would receive grants.

The new grants are:

- $3500 for the Fairfield Community Resource Centre to teach young people the dragon dance;
- $20,000 for the Sorella Radio Child Care to build an addition to the existing child care centre;
- $2000 for the Serbian National Federation to foster multiculturalism in south-western Sydney;

- $3000 for the Vietnamese Social Advancement Society to develop youth participation in festivals;

- $7000 for the Assyrian Australian Association to employ a community development worker;

- $5000 for the Assyrian's National Association to assist a scheme in welfare and immigration services;

- $1000 for the Lemuy Chilean Folkloric Association;

- $3000 in two grants of $1500 for the Villawood Seniors to provide for the recreational needs of the elderly;

- $1000 for the Salvadorian Association in Australia to assist in the maintenance of Salvadorian culture among youth.
