~~Health and Welfare Services~~ + 72 ~~provide flexible~~
~~in this manner~~
~~centres - Bega - Ginninderry - Glen~~
~~Yurley - Belgrave - Cull~~

~~$12,770.00 ready access to a range of services~~

~~available in the city. Dental care is not included in the Commonwealth Coated Medical Scheme, yet country children~~

~~are as likely as city children to require expensive orthodontic treatment. There are few services in remote areas for the aged. Aged people consequently often need to go to cities for special treatment or care in hospitals or aged persons homes, away from the environment in which they have spent their lives.~~

~~There are few support services for pregnant women in isolated areas. Many women move to a city some weeks before the expected date of birth and so are separated from the family at this very important time. Few white women in isolated areas are prepared to take the risk of having a baby at home.~~
